A collection of colorful glassware, including tumblers and vases, arranged in a curved display.
